Ike Expected To Propose Holding Revenues

Will Try To Talk Congress Out Of Cuts

Washington (AP) — Gen. Matthew B. Ridgeway faces his toughest diplomatic assignment today — to try to talk Congress out of threatened slashes in the administration's $5,800,000,000 foreign aid program.

The European commander and next Army chief of staff, who arrived from Paris yesterday is scheduled to testify twice before the House Foreign Affairs Committee, at a public session in the morning and behind closed doors in the afternoon. He will appear later in the week before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Landing at National Airport yesterday, Ridgeway again said he sees no chance now for a let up in the Western European defense effort.

"What Ridgeway says on policy is going to be awfully important," said Rep. Vorys (R-Ohio), a key member of the House group.

"But," Vorys added, "I don't think he can pull the administration out of the hole" on financial aspects of the program.

The House committee has started the most comprehensive congressional audit of foreign aid since the program began in 1948.

In essence, Vorys said, the committee wants to know what has happened to 32 billion dollars appropriated in the past for global assistance and why some of these funds, still unspent, cannot be used next year instead of voting fresh money.

Ridgeway is expected to avoid purely financial subjects in his outline of the military and political problems of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

No Arab-Israel Peace Possible Dulles Is Told

Beirut, Lebanon (AP) — The Lebanese Parliamentary Foreign Affairs Committee told U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles yesterday America must "remove from its mind any possibility of Arab peace with Israel."

The committee's statement represented the Lebanese Parliament's official views on Middle East problems. The committee, headed by Deputy Abdullah Yafi and including Prime Minister Saeb Salam, met for 45 minutes in the Parliament Building with Dulles, Harold E. Stassen, the U. S. foreign aid chief, and American Ambassador Harold B. Minor.

For his part, Dulles reminded the Arabs the U. S. regards the Communist threat to the free world as the paramount issue and other problems must be solved with that fact uppermost.

(Mr. Casey, one of America's great reporters, has written twenty-five books. His most famous probably is "Such Interesting People," all about newspaper people and their follies.)

The other day I ran into my old friend, Joe McNair, as I was heading for the Daily Blatt to answer an ad about how to make the so-called used overcoat push through another season. "I wouldn't give these newspaper mugs a cent," Joe said. "No, sir! Not one penny."

"They're against that great American principle—the two-party system," he charged. "They're howling because we patriots demand the right to elect our own candidates—that's what! They are all for one party—and one party alone. And I needn't tell you: That party is Republican."

"And this time they won," I said. "Yessir," he said sadly. "They surely did. And now some dimwit has my desk in the Office of Dog-Catching and Ash-Removal."

"Well," I consoled him. "You certainly have been serving the community faithfully for the past fifteen or twenty years. And

Army Engineers Ask Congress For $2.8 Billions For State Flood Work

Washington (AP) — The Army Engineers have asked Congress for $2,820,000 for flood control work in Pennsylvania during the year beginning July 1.

The figures, presented at closed hearings of a House Appropriations subcommittee, were included in printed testimony made public today.

The construction requests were $975,000 for Swoyersville, Forty Fort; $1,174,000 for Williamsport, and $500,000 for clean-up work on the Schuylkill River in the Philadelphia area.

Funds for planning flood control projects were requested in these amounts: $75,000 for the Allegheny River reservoir in the western part of the state; $45,000 for Allentown; $20,000 for Bradford, and $30,000 for Johnsonburg.

In addition, $570,000 was asked to complete the reconstruction of Locks No. 2 on the Monongahela River in Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

It will not be known until the committee acts on the Army civil functions appropriation bill whether the Engineers' requests will be granted.

The Engineers presented the committee with this picture:

Total cost of the Swoyersville-Forty Fort levee work will be brought to 46 per cent of completion. The coming year's work would complete the levee embankment and would include a start on the Abrahams Creek diversion.

Total cost of the Williamsport project will be 14 1/2 million dollars. With the money requested, the project would be brought to within 87 per cent of completion.

The government's total share of the Schuylkill River work is $12,574,000. The work would be brought to 30 per cent of completion with the half million dollars requested for the coming year and unexpended funds of about two million. The Engineers said they hoped to spend about 2 1/2 million dollars on the work during the approaching 12 months.

Pennsylvania already has spent 35 million dollars in its share of the dual clean-up job.

The requested planning funds for Allentown's levee work would permit the start of construction in the year beginning July 1, 1954. Total cost would be $1,823,000.

Total cost of the Bradford project is estimated at $8,284,000. The $20,000 asked for planning would make possible a start in the year beginning July 1, 1954.

Johnsonburg is a $383,000 project. The engineers said the requested planning funds would make possible a start in the year beginning July 1, 1954.

Segregation Issue Affects Nine Million

Atlanta, (AP) — Nearly nine million children in 16 states will be affected by the U. S. Supreme Court decision in the several cases seeking to outlaw segregation in public schools.

An Associated Press survey yesterday showed there are about 8,959,000 students attending public schools in the 14 Southern states which segregate the white and Negro races in their education systems.

In addition, about 25,000 Negroes attend segregated schools in two fringe states, Missouri and Kansas.

Public school segregation long has been under attack by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. Several lawsuits over the issue are before the Supreme Court but legal authorities consider one from South Carolina the leading case.

It directly attacks the "separate but equal facilities" theory under which the Southern states have been operating, and which once was sanctioned by the Supreme Court.

The segregation suits were argued before the Supreme Court about six months ago, and a decision has been expected for some time. The court will hold another opinion session today.

The 14 states which segregate white and Negro public school students are South Carolina, North Carolina, Virginia, Mississippi, Louisiana, West Virginia, Texas, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Kentucky, Tennessee, Georgia, Alabama and Florida.

GOP Senators Fear Split On Chinese Issue

Washington, (AP) — Dissatisfied GOP senators may call on Secretary of State Dulles soon to clarify the Eisenhower administration's attitude toward giving Communist China a seat in the United Nations.

Some Western allies already have indicated they will support Red China's plea for a place at the U. N. Security Council table as part of the Communists' price for a settlement in Korea.

President Eisenhower left many Republican senators unsatisfied and the administration's attitude somewhat up in the air when he told a news conference last week that certainly he would not say at this time that Red China's admittance to the U. N. should follow a Korean armistice.

An influential Republican senator who did not want to be quoted by name told this reporter that unless the President and Dulles follow a course opposing such a move actively and at every step the GOP "will break wide open over foreign policy."

Dulles probably will get a chance to state his views on the question when he reports to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on his current Middle East inspection tour.

Although he wrote in his book before he became secretary of state that the U. S. would have to recognize Red China once the Communists had gained full control over their territories and peoples, Dulles has gone much further in private conferences with senators than the President in flatly opposing Peiping's entry into the U. N.

Sabre Pilots Blast Four Commie MIGs

Seoul, Monday, (AP) — U. S. Sabre jets shot down four Communist MIGs and damaged three Sunday in the fifth straight day of blazing air battles over North Korea, the Air Force announced.

The latest encounters coincided with feverish Red efforts to reinforce their front-line troops. Sunday's bag raised the Fifth Air Force tally to 23 MIGs destroyed, one probably destroyed and 17 damaged since Wednesday.

The air battles and ground fighting have grown steadily in intensity as hopes dimmed for an armistice agreement at Panmunjom.

Chinese Red troops kept continuing pressure on the east-central sector of the 135-mile front Sunday.

Fighter-bombers significantly reported Red supply vehicles were more plentiful in the central sector, manned largely by South Korean defenders.

One B26 pilot said roads leading to the central sector "looked like the New Jersey Turnpike."

Light B26 bombers and fighter bombers destroyed 143 Communist supply vehicles moving toward the front Sunday.

Tito Believes World War III Danger Lessened

Slavonski Brod, Yugoslavia, (AP) — President Tito expressed conviction yesterday that the dangers of World War III have decreased.

Speaking at an anniversary celebration of the formation of the 6th Slovene Partisan Corps in World War II, he applauded British Prime Minister Churchill's speech last week urging big power talks. He referred to Churchill's speech as "one of the most important in recent years."

But while voicing his approval of big power talks, Tito held out a major reservation: that the talks should be held for discussion only, "to feel the pulse of world opinion, but for no final decision."

"It would be fatal," the Yugoslav leader said, "if the big powers would again decide about the fate of small countries."

Psychological Method Used By Czechs At Oatis Trial; Arrives In New York Today

Frankfurt, Germany, (AP) — William N. Oatis, Associated Press correspondent released Saturday from a Prague Prison, said yesterday the Czech Communists gave him "psychological" treatment in the trial which brought him a 10-year sentence.

Although denying that the Czechs tried to indoctrinate him with communism, or that he was mishandled, Oatis described his purported confession as "reciting something."

As he savored his first full day of freedom, Oatis discussed his trial and imprisonment with Associated Press colleagues. He said this:

"They were very efficient in their methods and preparation for my trial. It would be very difficult for me to describe what happened so that I could be understood by any one not familiar with such proceedings or with what is done, individually."

"I think you could call it more psychological than anything else."

"If what I was heard to say or reported to have said during the trial sounded like I was reciting something, why that's the way it was."

Oatis went on:

"As a newspaperman, I have always acted or tried to act as best I could on the proposition that a news story, to be fair, should present all essential sides. During the time I was in Prague, I found there were quite different ideas about what constituted objectivity in news reporting, as I have been taught and learned to know it."

"Many people, especially people in charge of the Czech govern-

Would Retain Taxes To Ease Deficit Load

By Charles F. Barrett

Washington (AP) — President Eisenhower reaches a crossroad on tax policy Tuesday. And congressional leaders said yesterday they expect him to turn toward some increase in federal revenue to ease an expected deficit next year.

An extension of the controversial excess profits tax on business, now due to expire in six weeks, was viewed by some Congress members as a reluctant but likely administration proposal.

Some lawmakers talked of another plan that might raise even more revenue—an adjustment in timing of regular corporation income tax payments, coupled with postponement of a scheduled automatic 5 per cent point drop in the tax.

At any rate, GOP leaders were ready to batten down the hatches and ride out a storm of opposition against any move to raise taxes, or to postpone a series of cuts fixed automatically under present law.

They thought Eisenhower might get what he wants, if he puts up a fight for it.

The President has promised to outline to congressional leaders Tuesday morning his detailed program on taxes, the budget and national security. He will present his stand to the nation in a radio broadcast Tuesday night. The outcome could be a major factor in congressional elections next year.

Since taking office four months ago, Eisenhower has had little or nothing to say about specific tax proposals. He has sketched only a general policy that revenue should not be reduced until a balanced budget is in sight.

The only official estimate so far as to how close Eisenhower will come to balancing the budget, for the fiscal year beginning July 1, has come from the staff of the Senate-House Committee on Internal Revenue. These specialists figured the new administration would run about six billion dollars in the red—cutting the tax cuts written into present laws.

Because of the gloomy fiscal outlook, the administration has sounded out key congressmen on various alternatives for increasing revenue. All of them seem likely to draw fire, especially in the House. Eisenhower could, of course, ask for a "freeze" on present tax rates—foregoing scheduled cuts pending further study.

19 Are Killed When Loaded Plane Crashes

Marshall, Tex., (AP) — A loaded Delta Airlines plane plunged to the ground 13 miles east of here yesterday afternoon in a blinding thunderstorm, killing at least 19 persons.

Mrs. J. M. Cox of Albuquerque, N. M., was the only known survivor.

Two other persons were brought to the hospital here but died soon afterwards.

The two-motor DC3 was en route from Dallas to Shreveport and only six minutes flying time from the Shreveport field when it went down. A report from the pilot two minutes before the crash made no mention of trouble.

Garland Clark, who lives near the Marshall Airport, said one motor on the plane was idle when it flew over at about 500 feet. He thought it was going to land at the Marshall airport, but instead it headed east into an approaching dark storm cloud.

Mrs. Cox said she did not know what happened.

"We ran into a terrific rain-storm and I dozed off," she said in the hospital here. "When I woke up the plane was turning over and over and everyone was screaming. The next thing I remember was coming to in a puddle of water with a dying man beside me."

Mrs. Cox was in a semi-conscious condition with a serious head injury and a broken leg. Doctors said here she had a good chance to survive.

Mrs. Cox said she was en route to Jackson, Miss., to meet her husband who is in the Air Force. She said the couple planned to take a vacation in Florida before he was sent overseas.

Homeyer, Carey Scheduled To Go To Electric Chair Sometime After 1:30 A.M.

Bellefonte, Pa., (AP) — Charles E. Homeyer, 56, and Ollie Carey, 50, both sentenced to die for murder, waited in their cells last night at Rockview State Penitentiary for the summons to the electric chair.

The pair, Homeyer the "lonely hearts club" slayer from Factoryville, Wyoming County; and Carey, a Philadelphia junk dealer, were scheduled for execution early this morning, soon after 12:30 a. m. Eastern Standard Time.

Both men lost final appeals for life last week. Homeyer, convicted of the brutal killing and dismembering of his sixth wife, Ann, was proclaimed sane by a court-appointed sanity board. His attorney had claimed he was an extreme psychopath when he killed his wife on March 28, 1950.

Carey's appeal for a writ of habeas corpus and eventually a new trial on the grounds that there was prejudice in his original trial was refused by a Federal judge in Philadelphia District Court.

Carey was found guilty in 1950 of the fatal shooting of Thomas J. Mathews in 1949 in a wooded area near Rydal, Montgomery County. Mathews, an Abington Twp. patrolman, was chasing Carey at the time.

Three appeals to the State Supreme Court for review of his sentence were denied Carey. The State Pardons Board also refused his pleas and the U. S. Supreme Court declined to hear argument in the case. During the time of his petitioning of the court Carey received numerous stays of sentence.

Homeyer, wounded World War I infantryman, was convicted of first degree murder June 29, 1951 in one of the most sensational murder cases in Northeastern Pennsylvania history. He was arrested in California and brought back for trial after neighbors became suspicious and got police to investigate his Factoryville home.

Police found parts of his wife's body under the cellar floor. They charged Homeyer with deliberate killing and butchering her but Homeyer still maintains he is innocent of the slaying. He says he found his wife dead and cut up her body in panic.

He told jailers many times that he would prefer to die if he cannot be free.

Hamilton School Directors Hold Tax Line In New Budget Setup

New School Rentals Are Fully Covered

Hamilton township school directors have set up a tentative budget of $95,661.69 for the coming school year. The budget will be met without increase in the township's taxation.

Taxes remain at the previous rate of 30 mills and $10 per capita. The 1953-54 proposed budget includes the cost of the area's "completely new" transportation system, the rental which must be paid to State Public School Authority for the new township elementary school building near Sciota and all increased costs of instruction.

Bus routes and contracts for the new consolidated system have been approved by officials from the Department of Public Instruction in Harrisburg.

Roy Cleaver, adviser on transportation and William Bevan, school finance division representative met with the board recently and gave their approval to its new system which goes into effect with the beginning of the coming school year.

Contracts for four new 66 and 73-passenger buses have been awarded by the board.

These contracts include the following:

Route No. 1—high school route from Stormsville to Stroudsburg High School and return to elementary school. Awarded to Delaware Valley Transportation Co.

Route No. 2—Pocono Drive-In Theater to elementary school via Neola and McIlhenny. Awarded to Donald Smith, Stroudsburg RD1.

Route No. 3—Faux farm to elementary school via Polk Valley, Beaver Valley and Kellersville. Awarded to Paul Flyte, Stroudsburg.

Route No. 4—Stormsville to elementary school. Awarded to Delaware Valley Transportation Co.

In addition to these, Harry Dornshimer has contracted to furnish transportation for a small route in lower Cherry Valley.

The new system will provide transportation for all children in the district next year, the board said.

Progress reports on the new elementary building were given last week.

Mrs. Corona Keiser, president, requested all board members to be present at a job conference at 1 p.m. today to "discuss and make future plans for occupying the building."

The position of janitor for the school building is to be filled and applications are being considered at the present time.

The annual budget will be advertised and a copy placed on public display prior to its adoption, in accordance with law.

Pappalardo, Cleveland Are Given Jury Awards

Fred Pappalardo, East Stroudsburg RD1 file-layer, was awarded $500 by a jury Saturday on his mechanic's lien action against Hanford L. Cleveland, East Stroudsburg plumber, and Dorothea Cleveland.

The claim, entered by Pappalardo's counsel, Maxwell H. Cohen, was originally for $1,100.

President Judge Fred W. Davis told the jury that Pappalardo's acceptance of a check for $600 reduced the amount of the original claim by that much, even though the check hadn't been cashed.

In Cleveland's assumption action against Pappalardo, the jury found in favor of Cleveland, in the amount of $350. Cleveland was represented by Elmer D. Christine and Walter Olenik.

Portland To Pay Off Debt

Portland-Borough Council will pay off the last bond in its $37,500 water supply debt on June 1. Council acquired the debt in 1938 when the Portland Borough Water Supply system was installed.

Arrangements were made to pay off the bonds periodically over a period of years. Last in the series (Bond No. 53) has now been called in for payment next month.

Since the water department was formed many improvements have been made to the local system.

Army To Review Order To Close Indiantown Gap

Washington, (AP)—Defense Secretary Wilson said the Army will re-examine its decision to close down the big military reservation at Indiantown Gap, Pa., next Sept. 1.

Wilson's announcement came out of a meeting attended by Reps. Fenton and Mumma, Pennsylvania Republicans; the two U. S. senators from the Keystone State—Edward Martin and James H. Duff, and representatives from the Pottsville, Lebanon and Williamsport, Pa., chambers of commerce. The Pennsylvania delegation called on Wilson to ask that the Army reconsider its withdrawal plan on the grounds the proposed move would result in additional unemployment in an area already suffering a labor surplus.

Louis DePaul Resigns At Mt. Pocono Postoffice For Signal Depot Post

Mount Pocono — Louis DePaul has resigned as postmaster here to take an administrative post at the Signal Depot, Tobyhanna, starting this morning.

Mr. DePaul was released from his postmastership Saturday by postal inspectors who turned the post office over with William J. Hines, Jr. as acting postmaster.

The former postmaster successfully completed Civil Service requirements, including examinations, for the responsible, Signal Depot post.

A veteran of World War II, he is a past president of Rotary, official of the fire department here, past leader of the American Legion and very prominent in community affairs.

Mr. DePaul expressed regret at terminating his association with the post office department. He said it was a position in which he was associated "with many fine people in government service. He referred to his experiences as president of Monroe County Postmasters Association as "something I will never forget because these people are dedicated to the highest ideals of postal service."

Rain Causes Car To Skid Against Pole

Rain caused the car of Donnal Billard, 16, Kunkletown RD2, to skid into a telephone pole near Saylorsburg at 3 p.m. Saturday.

Miss Billard escaped injury, according to Brodheadsville State police. The station wagon she was driving along Route 560 was damaged an estimated $300, police said.

The accepted method of building an Eskimo Igloo is to finish the job from inside before the door is made, the workman having to chop his way out.

'Absolutely Frantic'

State Welfare Secretary William C. Brown ran out of money. He couldn't pay some of his people and he's behind in his rent.

"I am becoming absolutely frantic," he said.

Well, Dr. Brown's trouble seems to be that he didn't become frantic quite soon enough.

He asked the Legislature to hurry up and pass a deficiency appropriations bill that contains $120,000 to bail out his department and see it through until he gets some fresh money at the start of the next biennium.

The money he got two years ago somehow just didn't last.

It seems to us that this is a terrible admission for an official to have to make.

So, a man in business is handed an appropriation on which to operate for two years. He figures his fixed expenses—payroll, rent, etc.—These things he can be sure of. And he sets up a separate account to meet these expenses when they fall due.

He doesn't dip into this fund for entertainment of customers or political contributions or anything else. He has to make this money last to stay in business even if he is forced to skimp on other phases of his operation.

But that is not how we do it in Harrisburg.

Is a separate fund set up to provide salaries of employees and to pay rent? Not by Mr. Brown.

Naturally, he runs out of money. But there is always the good old Legislature and that handy device—the deficiency appropriations bill—whereby the taxpayers cough up a little extra for the next two years to make up for Mr. Brown's carelessness of the last two.

The prudent householder on a fixed salary sets aside money for rent, taxes, insurance, utilities and savings. On what is left he feeds and clothes his family, maintains a car if he can afford one, and fritters away the balance on a movie and a bottle of beer now and then. He gets by OK.

Couldn't Mr. Brown give this system a try?

And couldn't it become general procedure in Harrisburg?

Mr. Brown isn't the only one who needs money. Other departments are in the same fix to the tune of four and a half million dollars, mostly to meet salary requirements.

The Democrats in the Assembly are accused of blocking the deficiency appropriations and making it tough on the State payrollers.

That could be. Apparently what the Democrats are trying to prove is that the Republicans engaged in some fancy payroll padding during the months before the election last fall and that is why they have the "shorts" now. They've got a good point there if they can make it stick.

A Senator Reminisces

Recently the senior senator from Pennsylvania took the floor of the United States Senate to reminisce—to allow his thoughts to go back over more than a half a century to the time when he first entered the service of Uncle Sam as a private in the Army.

Perhaps today there are more Pennsylvanians than not who are not fully cognizant of the long and meritorious career of United States Senator Edward Martin, now in his second term in the U. S. Senate, former Pennsylvania governor and administrator of other high positions, major general and back through the grades in service through two world wars to the Spanish-American war.

Senator Martin reminisced and his colleagues listened. And he bespoke those principles the worth of which has been proved to him over and over again in a life-time of public service: Great attention to the virtues of self-reliance, individual responsibility and faith in God.

The Once Over

—by H. I. Phillips

The Real News Newscast

There's a real novelty on the airwaves... a program on which the listeners and viewers are gripped by a performer who is not even in the act.

It is the Arthur Godfrey program (or program) on the "redhead" in a hospital cot in Boston... (Arthur really has his audience "on his hip").

There are long-time Godfrey fans who insist they see Godfrey in the act when the stand-ins are doing the show, and their chant is:

Last night I saw upon the air An airwave man who wasn't there;

He wasn't there again today... Oh yeah! That's what the doctors say.

"Red" Barber is going through the beret stage of life and wearing one of those French artists' hats on TV... Does this mean he has switched to "The Last Time I Saw Paris" from "Take Me Out to the Ball Game"?

And does he realize he is causing rumors that "The Bums" are signing up De Gaulle?

We hear that Arthur Murray will not be Native Dancer's jockey in the Preakness and that the choice will be Carmen Miranda.

"It is wrong to blame everything on the United States, Clement Attlee... Yes, but its such a popular idea... Bob Hall, one of the best men Yale ever had at the head of Yale Athletics, has resigned to enter business with I. Newman & Company... This is one of the oldest corset manufacturing firms in the nation... Things shaped up so well in sports at Yale under Bob without corsets that his success in a field dependent upon them is a foregone conclusion.

"Dentists Ask New Drill for Children"—headline... Ouch! The House Judiciary Committee has tabled a bill giving congressional sanction to National Golf Day, and we think it was the smart thing to do... Golf is doing well without Congressional glorification... Millions of "hackers" who will find true happiness only in giving up the game would have been given new courage and false hope... Furthermore, if Congress had passed such an act, the wives of America would have had a right to demand a National Dinner-on-Time Day and a "Don't-Bore-Your-Wife-With-a-Play-by-Play-Description-of-the-Afternoon-Round Week" (like Eisenhower is doing enough for golf without any special laws).

John P. Crane, head of the N. Y. Firemen's Association, who was dismissed for refusing to sign a waiver of immunity in the probe into a $125,000 shortage of association funds, has been ordered reinstated by a high court on the ground his refusal was to the District Attorney instead of Grand Jury... This would seem to be a case of a judge carrying a fireman's ladder... Mary Martin is the first star signed up for the Ford 50th Anniversary TV show in June... We suggest that the telecast include, obviously, "Liz" Kirk, Cal Tenny, HENNY Youngman and HENRY Fonda... (And how about Miss Martin coming through with "Across a Crowded Showroom," "In Love With a Wonderful Ride" and "Bali Highway"?)

LADY BOUNTIFUL

Robert S. Allen Reports

Elections Investigation In New Mexico, Time-Bomb

Washington—That little-noticed trip of the Senate Elections Investigating Subcommittee to New Mexico deserves a lot more attention than it has received.

Behind it is a sputtering time-bomb that is going to detonate the most furious political brawling of this Congress.

Following is what's involved in this highly explosive situation:

The fourth-term seat of Senator Dennis Chavez (D., N. M.), whose re-election last year is being stormily challenged on numerous charges by former Ambassador Pat Hurley.

The seat of Senator Clinton Anderson (D., N. M.), who comes up for re-election next year and whose chances would be seriously hurt if Chavez is thrown out.

Possible retaliatory Democratic attack on the 1952 campaign funds of Senator Frank A. Barrett (R., Wyo.), who is chairman of the Elections Investigating Subcommittee.

Revelation of the long-smoldering issue of the fitness of Senator Joe McCarthy to sit in the upper chamber. The report on this last year by the Democratic-controlled Elections Subcommittee is still before the Senate Rules Committee. Renewed demand for action on this dynamic-loaded report can be made at any time.

With Senate control in Republican hands only by the hair's breadth margin of 48 against 47 Democrats and 1 Independent, it is obvious neither party can afford to lose a single seat. Any move in that direction will be fiercely resisted.

That's why the Elections Subcommittee itself is traveling all the way to New Mexico for an on-the-spot scrutiny of the Chavez-Hurley feud. The eventual showdown in that supercharged vendetta could touch off a chain-reaction that might blow the Senate wide open. Both sides know that and they are getting ready for it.

Wheels Within Wheels—There are many strange angles to the Chavez-Hurley fight—some of them so "touchy" as to be unpublishable at present.

They are contained in a sensational report the Subcommittee has been gingerly sitting on for weeks. The document is so hot that even newsmen who have secretly seen it don't dare write about its contents.

The report was compiled by Committee probers, aided by at least six FBI men. Those ace investigators were assigned to this job on direct orders from the White House. That indicates how vitally interested the top GOP command is in this contest.

Another significant indication is the fact that the Senate Republican Campaign Committee has spent more than $30,000 in privately-contributed money to dig up evidence against Chavez.

That's why the Democrats have been secretly checking Senator Barrett's campaign funds. They are claiming to have uncovered more than $35,000 from wealthy out-of-state contributors, among them oil millionaires H. L. Hunt, Dallas; Joseph Pew, Philadelphia; and John Bugas, Ford vice-president.

One of the most curious aspects of the Chavez-Hurley scrap is that both are much more vigorously backed in Washington than they are by their own party leaders in New Mexico.

In their home states, the two rivals are anything but heroes in their own parties. Top leaders would like to get rid of both of them.

That is openly so in Hurley's case.

He has publicly accused Republican Governor Edward McChesney and State Republican Chairman Harry Robins of supporting Chavez. The State Canvassing Board, controlled by McChesney, certified Chavez' election by 5,300 votes within a few days after the balloting and when Hurley was vehemently charging "steal" on many counts.

Subsequently, in one of the most bitterly disputed districts, a local official authorized the burning of 18,000 ballots.

It's an open secret in New Mexico that if Chavez should be unseated, McChesney would never appoint Hurley. The Governor would grab the prize himself.

That's why Hurley is demanding of Senate Republican leaders that they not only kick out Chavez but declare Hurley elected.

That will take a great deal of doing.

Evidence of that is the GOP's inability so far to put through a $100,000 grant for the Elections Subcommittee. Senator Taft has tried to do that three times, and each instance has been stopped dead in its tracks by violent Democratic opposition.

Before the Committee departed for New Mexico, Republican insiders hinted that if a recount proves unavailing against Chavez, charges involving his "fitness" would be raised. This threat is clearly based on the sensational report in the Subcommittee's hands. But such a move would be certain to draw Democratic retaliation that might well blow the political lid off the Senate.

Flashes—The Food & Drug Administration is tackling a new kind of law violating. They are calling it "butterlegging," cases where oleomargarine and other substitutes are labeled and sold as butter... Senator Frank Carlson (R., Kan.) is trying to wrangle a government job for his old friend Wes Roberts, who recently resigned under fire as Republican National Chairman.

George Sokolsky Says...

Fitzgerald, Ex-Treasury Official, Is Questioned About Espionage Group

PROFILE OF A BOOK REVIEWER

Edward J. Fitzgerald, formerly of the U. S. Treasury and the War Production Board, was questioned by the Jenner Committee as to his membership in the Perlo Group, which has been described as an espionage operation.

The following colloquy occurred:

"Mr. Morris. Were you a member of the espionage ring described in that memorandum?"

"Mr. Fitzgerald. I decline to answer on the ground it might tend to incriminate me."

"Mr. Morris. Did you know Mr. Victor Perlo who was named here as head of the ring?"

"Mr. Fitzgerald. I decline to answer on the same ground."

When Fitzgerald left the government, he became a free lance writer, specializing in book reviews and stories for "Confession Magazine" (seems to be an incorrect name in the transcript). His book reviews appeared in "The New York Times," "The New York Herald Tribune," and "The Saturday Review." He not only reviewed books under his own name, but when, he said, he reviewed the same book for several publications, pseudonyms were used. He did not recall all the pseudonyms, because some were manufactured by the editors of the publications. One such assumed name was Martin Rice. It is interesting to know that such practices are employed by these high-brow publications.

Fitzgerald testified that in one year, this year, he reviewed 53 books for "The Saturday Review," which is at least one a week; he did six for "The New York Times," and about 50 for the "New York Herald Tribune." How many of these were duplicates the testimony does not say.

He was questioned as to whether he had ever warned any of these editors that he had been suspected of being a Communist or a member of an espionage group and it appears that he only spoke about it to Norman Cousins of "The Saturday Review."

This is the testimony:

"Mr. Morris. Did he know about your having been identified in Washington as a member of a wartime espionage ring?"

"Mr. Fitzgerald. May I consult?"

"Mr. Morris. You may."

(Witness confers with counsel.)

"Mr. Fitzgerald. I discussed the matter with Norman Cousins."

"Mr. Morris. Did you make any explanation to him?"

"Mr. Fitzgerald. I decline to answer that question."

"Mr. Morris. Did you deny the allegations in the published testimony about your participation in the war espionage ring?"

"Mr. Fitzgerald. I decline to answer that question on the same ground as before."

It is not necessary to belabor the point of Mr. Fitzgerald's present attitude. It is sufficient to cite the following:

"Senator Welker. Mr. Fitzgerald, as of this moment, are you a member of a secret espionage or sabotage ring against the interest of the Government of the United States?"

"Mr. Fitzgerald. I decline to answer that question on the same ground as before."

There has been severe criticism of inquiries of persons who write books, or for newspapers and magazines, on the basis that such inquiry is an abridgment of freedom of the press. On the other hand, in the investigation of the McCarran Committee, it was established that a group of persons conspired to dominate books on Far Eastern subjects published in this country, and the reviews of such books in the three publications mentioned in this column, which are the most important in the country.

Here is a man, Edward J. Fitzgerald, who is not a professional journalist but who moves into book reviewing from government employment. His name has appeared in the testimony of others. He somehow quickly reaches these top publications, which is not easy even for a professional and does more than 100 reviews in a short time, which is very rare indeed. And he uses not only his own name, but several others, often reviewing the same book for each publication, which is close to a monopoly.

As bookshops base their orders on reviews appearing in these publications, the significance is obvious.

Is it really true that artists are better judges of art than American Legion posts, chowder and marching clubs?

I do not think so.

Art is not created for experts. Its purpose is to make the masses enjoy and appreciate it.

That does apply not only to paintings, but to ALL forms of art. It includes music, plays, literature.

Looking At Life

—by Erich Brandeis

A violent controversy has been raging in Congress over a series of paintings in the San Francisco post office.

The paintings are by Anton Refreiger, Russian-born artist, and Representative "Scudder" (R-Calif.), has introduced a bill to remove the murals as "subversive, grotesque, cadaverous, offensive, slanderous and historically inaccurate."

In one of the paintings for instance, the California lawmaker said, a public official is shown with "long mule ears." Other figures are shown with "dwarfed heads, sadistic expressions, morose faces." The whole thing, Scudder insists, is Communist propaganda.

A certain San Francisco "citizens committee," which wants to keep the paintings in the post office, has sent an attorney to Washington, who, defending the pictures, said that "artists are better judges of art than Legion posts and chowder and marching clubs."

He produced a parade of "experts" who testified that Refreiger's paintings are important art works, admirable examples of wall decorations, and fine in quality and suitable in style.

Is it really true that artists are better judges of art than American Legion posts, chowder and marching clubs?

A piece of music may be full of the most complicated passages.

It may arouse the wildest enthusiasm of the music critics and the long-haired musical experts.

But it is "the doggie in the window" that seems to be judged the greatest masterpiece by the public in general. Which is amply proven by the phenomenal sale of the phonograph records and by the number of times it is played by bands all over the country.

A book may not have any literary merit at all. But if it strikes the public fancy, if it reaches four, five, six editions—who is there to deny that it is a good piece of literature?

The times when artists were satisfied to starve in their dirty attics are gone forever.

Artists today want penthouses, automobiles and swimming pools. Money has become the standard of art.

It is unfortunate that it is so. But it is.

Postage rates have been increased. As long as we have to pay three cents for a two-cent stamp and two cents for a penny post card, we certainly have a right to choose our art in the country's post offices.

Even if the artist is NOT a Communist.

Kiwanians Will Welcome Hawaiian Beauty Queen For YMCA Benefit Show

Kiwanians of Stroudsburg are preparing to roll out the red velvet carpet this week in honor of nineteen year old Beverly Rivera, a runner up in the beauty pageant at Atlantic City where she represented her native Hawaii in quest of the Miss America crown.

Plans for feting the glamorous Miss Hawaii include a motorcade from the Stroudsburg-East Stroudsburg airport next Tuesday afternoon at two, visits to numerous Monroe County hotels, and a leading role in the fashion show to be presented Wednesday night at State Teachers College auditorium in benefit of the YMCA building fund. Kiwanian William P. Wells, head of the fashion department at A. B. Wyckoff, is general chairman of the show, during which Miss Hawaii will model fashions brought from her native land.

Beverly is described as a fascinating brunette with a personality as sunny as the South Sea Islands from which she hails. A college student, her studies were temporarily side-tracked in favor of modeling, as a result of the beauty contests, but she confides that she is planning to return home shortly, resume her studies, marry and "have a big family". For the present, however, she is touring the United States, representing Kama-hamaha Garments, Ltd., a line of leisure-wear manufactured in her homeland. During the fashion show, Mr. Wells states, Miss Rivera will don a typical Hawaiian sarong.

Miss Hawaii will leave California Monday by TWA to visit the Poconos, and will be met at LaGuardia Field by a committee of local Kiwanians and Wyckoff representatives, who will fly to New York in the store plane piloted by E. Holt Wyckoff. Among those who will accompany her to Stroudsburg are Kiwanis President Kunkle, Mr. Wells, and A. A. Widmer, store photographer and head of advertising.

The motorcade, which will greet the beauty contest winner, is being arranged by seven local automobile dealers, all members of Kiwanis, with George Savidge as chairman. Mayors of Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg, as well as other local dignitaries and fashion show models are being invited to appear in the parade.

Miss Hawaii will make her headquarters at the Penn-Stroud Hotel during her stay in the Stroud-

STROUDSBURG. BIRTHPLACE OF THE NATION-WIDE J. J. NEWBERRY STORES reads the inscription on the face of our new store at Sixth and Main. It could also have said "First In Our Chain and First In Our Hearts."

It was in Stroudsburg in 1911 that Mr. J. J. Newberry started his business, little dreaming that it would grow from one 25 by 100 foot store into a chain of 485 stores in 45 states. And without the warm response of the people of Stroudsburg, J. J. Newberry Co. could never have expanded beyond the original store at 625 Main Street, Stroudsburg, Pennsylvania. So, on Wednesday morning at 9:30 - - because we feel that Stroudsburg deserves the very best--a brand new J. J. Newberry store will be unveiled. Still bearing the proud title of "Store No. 1", it will be one of the most modern, attractive shopping showplaces in the entire country.

We hope you will permit us to serve you there as we have for the past 42 years . . . for it is your patronage that we value above all.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Tell you one thing—it was much easier writing the article that won the award than it was going to State College to collect it. I have renewed sympathy for all the parents who make that trip regularly collecting and returning their youngsters to college. The speakers at the press conference seemed agreed that it would be much simpler to go to Timbuctoo.

But then every year I gain a fresher viewpoint on the problems of parents. You start in thinking that after you get the feeding and toilet training problems licked you'll be all set. Then comes school time and home work and dancing classes and piano lessons.

But surely when they get in high school—but no, then it's extra-curricular activities and the proper time to get home from parties and trying to balance privilege and responsibility. And from all reports, things get even more complicated when they go away to college.

There are compensations, though, you'll have to admit—even to PTA work. Especially when they come up with programs such as the ones to be given at both Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg PTA tonight. If these plays are anything like the previous ones I've seen, they're fun to watch and fun to tear apart afterward.

However, you have to wait until you're a grandmother to be sure that those opinions you defend so valiantly as the only proper ways to bring up children are the right ones.

A penny supper was planned for May 27 at the chapel.

Others present were: Mrs. Elizabeth Evans, Anna Serfass, Freda Colvin, Anna Fritz, Betty Andre, Mayme Andre, Catherine Knowles, Olive Merring, Vivian Butz and Miss Dorothy Lisette. The social secretary is Jacky Heller.

"Do you suppose we could take time to walk past Newberry's and look in the windows," I asked a co-worker Saturday as we left the Wyckoff cafeteria together. She thought we could, so a few minutes later we were peering over, under, and around the doorway posters to glimpse the soda fountain, notions counter, nail polish display, and (by standing tiptoe and looking down the stairway) the fabrics department.

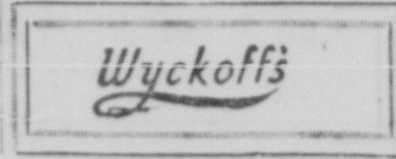

Turning away, I suppressed a giggle as I reflected upon the picture we must have made. I'm not sure what the laws are governing Peeping Toms—but I'm certain we had done our best to break them. And we were not alone! The women of our community are just as avid in their pecking these days as the men were in their "side-walk superintending" a few months ago.

It is only natural that we should be curious, of course . . . for anything that changes the appearance of Main Street changes, in some subtle way, the lives of us all. It has always seemed to me that our town is one of the loveliest and most progressive in our nation. Because this is true, I believe we should all be appreciative of anything that will make Stroudsburg more attractive not only to the tourist, but to the young people who are born and reared here. From the standpoint of economy, I think there is a very definite need in our community for any business enterprise which will offer steady employment and increased opportunity to the residents of this area. And from a purely personal angle, we welcome the new store as a further bond between this area and a family well known and respected here.

All of us know of the Newberrys. We have heard many times the story of the first store which mushroomed into a nation-wide chain, bringing fame and fortune to the former local businessman. Some of us played with Virginia Newberry as children, and when John Jr., returned to this area briefly some years ago we were intrigued and delighted.

At Wyckoff's the new store has been watched with a great deal of interest. Not because it is big and beautiful, but because Mr. Newberry is well known to many of our store family, particularly the Wyckoff's themselves.

I suppose today's column should have been devoted to an account of Miss Hawaii's coming tomorrow, and the proposed motorcade from the airport. But that can wait. Right now, I'd like to say "Welcome, Neighbor" to the new store up the street, and to Mister Newberry himself. "Welcome home. Why not stay awhile?"

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Today's action on the local sports scene almost closes the books on the spring sports schedule in Monroe County and surrounding territory. Stroudsburg High completed its baseball season at Emmaus on Saturday, while both the men's and women's tennis squads at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College brought down the spring curtain, as did the ESSTC track machine, also on Saturday. Virtually all action on the Monroe County athletic front comes to a halt next week, as time is fast running out on the present school year.

Each of the athletic captains at ESSTC spoke briefly on Thursday when all varsity letter winners were honored at the local college. Speaking of honoring letter winners, it might be a good idea to purchase your tickets for next Wednesday's All-Sports Banquet at the Penn-Stroud Hotel. The third annual affair is being sponsored by the Alumni Varsity "S" club. Pete Carlino, assistant athletic director and veteran coach at the University of Scranton, will be the featured speaker. Dr. Frank P. Maguire, commissioner of PIAA officials, will serve as toastmaster.

Tickets, selling for $2.50, may be purchased from virtually every graduate of Stroudsburg High and certainly from every faculty member. The sooner tickets are purchased the better, as a last-minute rush on the ducks is expected before 6 p.m. Wednesday. All varsity lettermen at Stroudsburg High will be honored at the affair and senior athletes will receive jackets. Floyd "Willie" Williams, Stroudsburg High first baseman, was one of the Rocky Marciano supporters prior to Friday night's heavyweight title scrap.

Bill "Bump" Metzger forgot about baseball long enough Friday night to do a little fishing. Karl Weingartner and Jim Driebe, both of Stroudsburg High, have been the target of at least one college, although each is still a year away from graduation. Karl is a three-lettermen at the W. Main St. school, while Driebe's varsity sports include football and baseball. Byron "Chick" Miller, high scoring basketball star at Stroudsburg High, has virtually decided on Syracuse University for his college career, although the sharpshooting forward has reportedly received offers from several colleges.

Doug Schoonover, well known athlete and former resident of Stroudsburg, has coached Fairview Township High School to six victories without a defeat in the present baseball campaign. The Schoonover charges could win the league title by turning in a victory today. Doug is a graduate of both Stroudsburg High and East Stroudsburg State Teachers College and formerly played baseball with Portland and Pocono A.C., both of the Blue Mountain League.

Horace Johnson, former baseball and basketball star at Pocono High school, is scheduled to enter Officer's Candidate School at Camp Breckinridge, Kentucky, on Monday, June 1. Horace, who also graduated from ESSTC, is scheduled to enter the Ordnance Officer's school. Ernest Cascioli, Mayor of Roseto, threw out the first ball in yesterday's Pocono A.C.-Roseto Blue Mountain League baseball game at Bangor's Memorial Park.

Bill "Lefty" Greenamoyer worked nine innings for the second straight Sunday for Portland yesterday to register his second win without a defeat. The former North Atlantic League hurler hasn't walked a batter in 18 innings of baseball. Harry Dalley, second baseman for the Tobyhanna entry in the Pocono Mountains Association, enters the Army on Friday, one day after John "Kip" Kovich, a pitcher on the same club, returns to active duty with the same branch of the service. Stan "Lefty" Kolodzey, regular first sacker for the same Tobyhanna club, wasn't at his usual first base post yesterday.

Kolodzey suffered a foot injury playing softball, but hopes to return to active duty next Sunday. Bill Hibbs was one of two winners for the ESSTC track squad on Saturday, but it came as a surprise to Coach Howard DeNike. Hibbs has been one of the main point winners on the ESSTC squad all season, but wasn't scheduled to make the trip to Montclair on Saturday due to the fact that Bill had been in an automobile accident recently and suffered a head injury. Hibbs went to Philadelphia to have the stitches taken out on Saturday morning and arrived at Montclair just in time to take part in the discus event. Naturally—he won.

Roseto Defeats Pocono A. C. In Eleven Frames, 5-4

Metzger Bows In Initial Mound Start

Bangor—A triple to deep left-center field by Len Castellucci gave Roseto A. A. an 11-inning 5-4 victory over Pocono A. C. in a Blue Mountain League baseball battle fought here at Memorial Park yesterday.

Bill "Bump" Metzger, fresh from a winning season with Stroudsburg High, pitched the entire game for Pocono A. C., limiting the Roseto club to eight hits over the route, while his mates pounded out nine safeties against three Roseto hurlers.

Metzger and John Vybihall tossed scoreless ball until the bottom of the sixth, when Roseto scored three times. The big blow of the inning was a terrific home run to the deepest left field corner by Dick Pritchard, peppery Roseto shortstop, with two mates aboard. A costly infield error proved fatal for the visiting club in this frame.

Pocono A. C. took over a one-run lead in the eighth, when the visitors tallied four times. Lyle Krall opened the frame with a single and Tom Foley followed with a similar blow. Hobart "Hobe" Hutchins beat out an infield hit to fill the bases. Jerry Muys filed to right, all runners holding. Metzger singled Krall home, but a fine throw by Hal Nerino caught Hutchins off second. Jack Newell drew a life on an error, and both Foley and Metzger scored on the play.

Fourth Run
John Liberto committed three errors in the inning, when he committed two errors on Harold Freeman's roller and Newell drew a life on an error, and both Foley and Metzger scored on the play.

Roseto came right back to even the count with a singleton in the bottom of the eighth. Liberto singled and was sacrificed to second. Pritchard walked for his third straight time. Al "Red" Nerino walked to fill the sacks and Hal Nerino filed to Freeman in deep center to plate Liberto after the catch. Angelo Valetta filed out to end the inning.

Roseto's 11th inning run was unearned, as Muys dropped Valetta's fly in short left field for an error. D'Imperio was safe on Metzger's wild throw, but Hutchins picked Valetta off second on the next pitch. Castellucci then followed with the game winning triple.

Pocono A.C. is scheduled to practice at East Stroudsburg Play-ground every day this week. Each drill session is slated for 6:30 p.m.

Cubs Sweep Two From Pirates

Chicago (AP)—The Chicago Cubs snapped out of a hitting slump to sweep a doubleheader, 6-2, and 7-3 from the Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday before 7,745 persons who braved both rain and cold.

The triumphs, coming on the heels of 12 losses in the past 14 games, enabled the Cubs to unseat the Pirates in sixth place. After the start of the first game was delayed 15 minutes due to rain, the second was called after six and a half innings because of darkness.

Pitchers
Paul Minner scattered seven hits to gain his second victory in the opener. Johnny Klippstein yielded but four safeties in the bob-tailed nightcap.

Emmaus Tallies Twice In Seventh To Sink Stroudsburg

Emmaus—Three singles and a throwing error by Benny Miller enabled Emmaus to score two runs in the bottom of the seventh and finish on the long end of a 4-3 count against Stroudsburg High here on Saturday, in a Lehigh Valley League game.

Reeders Runs Wild Over West End, 22-2

Reeders—Reeders unleashed a 20-hit attack against three pitchers here yesterday to run wild over West End A. C., 22-2. It was the second Pocono Mountains League victory in as many outings for the Reeders contingent.

All doubt was taken out of the half game as early as the second inning, when Reeders scored five times. The home team then followed with nine in the third, four in the fourth, two in the fifth and two more in the seventh.

West End managed to avert a shutout with single markers in the seventh and ninth rounds.

George Martin was the starting and winning pitcher for Reeders, although Frank Ciofalo turned in a nifty relief job.

Al Conklin, Dick Burkitt and Harry Possinger handled the pitching chores for the losing club.

Martin, Sam Bonser, Bob Schick and Karl Butz led the Reeders' attack as each batted out three safeties.

Analomink Deals Loss To Barrett

Henryville—Analomink inflicted the first loss of the Pocono Mountains League baseball season on Barrett here yesterday, 10-6. It was also the initial win of the campaign for the Analomink club.

Analomink crammed all of its scoring into four innings, as the home contingent took a two-run lead in the first inning and held the upper hand the remainder of the distance.

Early Lead
The winning aggregation led 3-1 at the end of the first inning and then stepped out in front at the end of two frames, 6-1.

Lamar Price blasted a home run in the seventh round for Barrett, but the big blow failed to change the outcome of the contest.

Giants Pound Cardinals, 9-6

St. Louis, (AP)—Harold "Tookie" Gilbert, who owned only one single in 15 times at bat, broke out yesterday with four hits, including a three-run homer, as the New York Giants snapped the St. Louis Cardinals' three game winning streak, 9-6.

The 24-year-old left-handed-hitting Gilbert, recently installed at first base in Manager Leo Durocher's lineup manipulations, drove in four runs, but it was his first homer—a shot to the right-field roof off Stu Miller in the sixth inning—that proved decisive.

St. Louis—010 202 001—6 10 0

The match won't be made up this season, so ESSTC completed its campaign with two wins and six defeats. A total of two matches were cancelled.

ESSTC Nips Kutztown In Baseball

Kutztown—East Stroudsburg State Teachers College evened its baseball season mark at five wins and the same number of defeats here Saturday, when the Warriors earned an 8-7 victory over Kutztown.

It was the second time this season that ESSTC has taken the measure of Kutztown on the diamond.

East Stroudsburg clinched the victory in eight games in the eighth frame. After Dick Mellman walked, Art Schaare doubled him to third. Bill Shires was passed to fill the bases. Then reliever and losing pitcher "Chuck" Correnti wild-pitched Mellman home.

Winning Run
Correnti then passed Bob Hartman and Lyle Kroll to force in the winning run.

East Stroudsburg opened with a pair of runs in the first, added one in the third and three in the sixth before notching the clinchers in the eighth.

Kutztown, held scoreless by starter Lloyd Woodling during the first five innings, picked up five runs in the sixth before John Zawatski, and later Mellman took over to finish the game. The Avalanche notched two more markers in the seventh before East Stroudsburg snatched the lead for good.

For the Record

—by Robert J. Casey

ON THE "ONE-PARTY" PRESS

you're right about these newspaper lads—Nobody can be up to them.

"I recall hearing mention of editorial bias the last time poor Harry Truman ran. And when Franklin Roosevelt was campaigning, the second, third or fourth time, the same cry was raised. Yet Franklin managed to get elected, despite press opposition."

"That's something entirely different," said Mr. McNair. And, in a way, it was different—Mr. McNair didn't have to go out in his advanced years looking for a new job.

"You may be very right," I said. I told him about old Martin Horton—who owned a journalistic enterprise in the vicinity of St. Louis.

Horton was one of those political experts who, to McNair, was probably an evil-doer. He not only didn't believe in a two-party system, he frankly didn't believe in any.

I told McNair how once I went in to see Horton about getting a little help for one of the boys who wanted an easy job in city hall, or, maybe, selling supplies to the county with a suitable split. I mentioned that my candidate was just right for this job because he was a brave, loyal party man. I recalled how Old Horton sniffed sourly.

"What the what?" he roared. "What difference does it make whether he's a Democrat, a Republican or a Hottentot? The whole truth with this country is it has too many parties."

"Nobody ever accused it very much of having more than two," I said. "And now I see most people believe there's only one."

"So what!" he bellowed. "Tomorrow it may not have any. Who cares? If they could throw out the whole works, this would be a happier world to live in."

I didn't know what he was talking about and said so.

"Look," he told me, "the newspaper business sets itself up as a wise, hardworking distributor of advice to the public. And I've done my level best to tell people about everything from horse-racing to cookery. But no matter how honest a publisher may be, unless he dishes out what the customers want to read, the end is in sight for him. It won't be long before he tries to get what he can for the presses, the old desks, typewriters and erasers and such."

"That's what makes running a newspaper so much like selling hay or soap. If people don't care for what you're peddling, they won't buy it."

"We started to run a Republican paper because we figured a Republican paper would get a good reception in this county. We changed our lots of editorials about how doggone bad the Democrats were—and we did make a little profit off the print shop."

"Well, anyway, something happened, and F.D.R. got elected. Some of us thought the country was going to pot. But I took a look around and far's I could see, everything was pretty much the same. There were some new faces in the city hall and the county building, the state legislature and the county morgue. But not many. It seems that no matter who gets elected you've got to keep most of the trained office help who know the business of running a community. So we kept going on a good deal as before.

"Me, I never could see any difference between the Democrats and the Republicans as I ran into them around town."

"I've heard a lot about editors and publishers running hog-wild for a single party. That's stupid. No editor is going to change this two-party system. In the first place he can't change it. In the second place, he doesn't want to."

"No matter who wins an election there are always about fifty million losers who think they've lost something."

When I finished telling McNair about Horton, he was indignant. "An editor—and a Republican!" he declared bitterly. "A one-party man!"

"Not quite," I soothed him. "He admits there are two parties. But he thinks the only difference between them is that one is in and the other is out."

I have had no further word on this matter from Mr. McNair.
